

Commercial Development Lead

Join Investor Services as we build the leading post-trade services provider for Nordic corporates and institutions. You will shape the future of our product suite while working at the intersection of innovation and customer experience. This role offers the opportunity to drive transformation within a growing business.

What you will be doing

As Commercial Development Lead, you will spearhead initiatives that transform our post-trade product offerings and business processes. Working within a focused four-person Commercial Development team in Transaction Banking, you will collaborate closely with development teams, technology specialists, and stakeholders across the organisation to deliver on our Forward '28 strategy.

- Lead product initiatives end-to-end from conception to implementation
- Manage the Investor Services product portfolio alongside development tribes
- Represent Investor Services in product development and approval processes
- Support executive deliverables and key strategic priorities
- Build strong stakeholder relationships and ensure effective task distribution

About you

- Experience in financial services, preferably with post-trade products or financial technology
- Background in product management or product ownership within financial services

- Proficiency in Microsoft Office suite and experience with GenAI tools
- Strong analytical skills with ability to manage multiple initiatives simultaneously
- Initiative-taker with structured approach and pragmatic mindset
- Written and verbal English communication skills
- Curiosity to understand processes while challenging the status quo
- Experience with custody or financial markets infrastructure would be valuable, as would familiarity with project management.

What we offer you

You will join a supportive team environment where learning and development are prioritised. We offer hybrid working arrangements with 3 to 4 days per week in the office to foster collaboration and knowledge sharing. You will have opportunities to build expertise across multiple business areas while contributing to meaningful transformation within a leading Nordic bank.
